P p Numb. 982

The Daily Courant.

Friday, June 8. 1705.

From the Amſterdam Gazette, dated June 6.

Huy, May 30.

THE Marſhal de Villeroy and the Count d' Artagnan (which laſt commands the Troops that have beſieg'd this Place on the Condros Side,) having ſeveral Times ſummon'd the Town; it was thought fit, to prevent the Ruine of the Inhabitants, and becauſe it is of no Defence, to come to an Agreement about it like that which was made when the Duke of Marlborough came before it. The Count d' Artagnan came in Perſon to the Wall, and our Governour Monſieur Croonſtroon, in the Preſence of all the chief Officers, propos'd the following Articles to him.

1. Two or Three Boats are demanded, to be ſent down the River to Liege or Maeſtricht, with

2. the Sick, Wounded, Baggage, and Women that deſire to go out of the Place.

3. That theſe Boats be guarded by 8 Men and a Serjeant.

4. And that they be furniſh'd with Paſſports by the Count d' Artagnan.

5. That the Officers Horſes which cannot be ſent down by Water, ſhall go by Land, and that the C. d' Artagnan ſhall let them have a Guard of Dragoons, and Paſſports: 'Tis promis'd that no Horſes ſhall be ſent out, but ſuch as belong to Officers of Foot.

6. The Town ſhall be quitted to the Beſiegers at 6 a Clock to Night, the 30th of May, or ſooner if poſſible.

7. The Women that will ſtay in the Cloyſters, with their Baggage and Servants, ſhall not be moleſted.

8. The Baggage, in Waggons, Carts, &c. ſhall be brought to the Governour's House, and there be guarded by Direction of the Count d' Artagnan; and all other things ſhall be carriedin to the Caſtle by the Officers to whom they belong.

All theſe Articles were agreed to and Sign'd, and at preſent there is a Suſpenſion of Arms on both ſides, while the Garriſon is marching into the Caſtle.

From the Amſterdam Courant, dated June 9.

From the Army under Monſieur d' Auverquerque, June 4. and 6. The Beſiegers of Huy having batter'd the Forts Piquart and Rouge very furiouſly from the 1ſt Inſtant, ſtorm'd Fort Piquart the 3d at Night, and after an Hour's diſpute took it with very great Loſs; our Men retiring to the other Forts. The Enemy have already ſent 4 Boats with their Wounded up to Namur. The Count d' Artagnan, who was firſt appointed to command the Siege, is call'd off to the Army that covers it, and Monſieur de Gace commands in his Room.

Maeſtricht, June 6. They write from Liege, that they work very hard upon the Fortifications of their Citadel. We can get but few particulars of the Siege of Huy; all Correſpondence on that Side being forbidden at Liege on ſevere Penaltys: But from other Places we learn, that the Enemy after they had been twice repuls'd with great Loſs took Fort Picard the 3d at Night, but found only 12 or 15 of our Men in it, the reſt being retir'd to other Forts. The ſame Night they took Fort Rouge likewiſe, but not without great Reſiſtance and conſiderable Loſs. 'Tis ſaid this Siege has already coſt them 800 Men, without reckoning the wounded and deſerted.

From the Leiden Gazette, dated June 9.

From M. d' Auverquerque's Camp, June 6. The Enemy having uſually every Evening ſince they came before Huy, ſent out great Detachments to this ſide of Horion, Monſieur d' Auverquerque commanded Count van der Nath Major-General with 900 Horſe, to march that way the 3d Inſtant, between 10 and 11 a Clock at Night. Near Horion he met 500 of the Enemy's Horſe, who immediately fled, but our Men following hard after them, kill'd 40 or 50 of them, and took 60 Priſoners, among them Monſieur Arenberg their chief Officer, aud 3 other Officers: 74 Horſes were likewiſe taken from them. Count vander Nath. loſt no more than 5 Men. The 4th General Slangenburg, and the Prince of Naſſau, Hereditary Governour of Friſeland, arriv'd in the Camp. Our new Lines, which are run out towards Maeſtricht, will be perfected in 2 or 3 Days.

From the Amſterdam Courant, dated June 11.

Maeſtricht, June 8. The 6th Count Tilly, General of the States Horſe, who had lain here ſome time indiſpos'd, went from hence to the Camp. Parties ſent out from our Army, bring in Priſoners and Horſes daily, which Horſes are preſently bought up, though they are worth little: If we may judge of the Enemy's Horſe by thoſe that have been taken from them, their Cavalry is in a poor Condition.

From Monſieur d' Auverquerque's Camp, June 9. Tho' the Enemy have made a pretty large Breach in the Caſtle of Huy, the Governour Monſieur Croonſtrom continues to make a vigorous Defence, and ſeems determin'd to hold it to the laſt Extremity. The Enemy are lading a great many Boats and Waggons at Namur with Ammunitions, which 'tis very probable is to be employ'd againſt the Citadel of Liege. Brigadier Citters is gone thither to aſſiſt the Governour to defend it. The Garriſon in it, conſiſts of the Regiments of Ameliſwaert, Amema, Erbevelt, who 'tis not doubted will make a very good Defence if attack'd. Juſt now we have Information the Enemy have detach'd ſome Brigades from their Army; ſome ſay they are to march up to the Moſelle; others that they are to come this Way and inveſt Liege. Yeſterday a Camp was mark'd out within our new Lines; but we do not hear yet when we are to move into it.

From the Bruſſels Gazette, dated June 2.

Lions, May 25. Monſieur de Manville, Governour of the Caſtle of Pierre Enciſe, was aſſaſſinated on Aſcenſion-Day, at 2 in the Afternon, by five Priſoners who made their Eſcape; he was ſtab'd in 5 places, his Maid and one of his Men were wounded. The Priſoner who contriv'd this Eſcape, deſir'd leave of Monſieur de Manville, to make his Servants drink, for Joy of his Wife's being brought to Bed: Which being granted, he carried them all into a Chamber, where the Priſoners, as they were drinking fiez'd them, tied their Hands behind them, ſtop'd their Mouths with Handkerchiefs, to hinder their crying out, and 2 of the Priſoners kept guard upon them while the reſt went and kill'd Monſieur de Manville, who was reading in his Chamber; after which one of them went down and told the Guards at the Gate, their Maſter would ſpeak with them above; they went up, and as ſoon as they enter'd the Chamber, the Priſoners fiez'd them, and ſecur'd them as they had had done the Servants: Then they took the Keys, lock'd all the Doors, and the outer Gate, and taking the Keys with them, made their escape with Horses that stood ready for them in the Town. They carried off with them the Governour's Cross, Watch, and 80 Pistoles. They write from Montpellier, that Regis and Maillie 2 Merchants in the Sevennes, who last Year distributed among the Camisars the Money that was sent to them by Forreigners, were condemn'd the 13th Instant to be hang'd, and executed the next Day; that Regis was converted, and died a Roman Catholick: That the 20th a Detachment found Claris, a Leader of the Camisars, with 8 of his Party arm'd in a place that was almost inaccessible, several shot were made at them, but they got off; but that the Duke of Berwick has sent 4 Companies of Miquelets into that part of the Country to look for them, and destroy them.

From the Amsterdam Gazette, dated June 9 and 10.

Paris, June 1 and 5. They write from Nimes, that one Chevalier of Normandy (not Cavalier, as has been reported) was put to death there the 22d of last Month. He was an ancient Catholick, a Comrade of Catinat and Ravanel. He was broken on the Wheel alive. Abraham, a Comrade of Brueeze, and 20 others are taken. They write from Lyons, that the Persons who assassinated the Governour of Pierre Encise, were French and Savoyards Roman Catholicks; of whom some had been taken as Spies, and others for counterfeiting the Coin. When they had got the Keys, they offer'd the Protestants that are Prisoners there their Liberty, if they refus'd it. A Woman of the Town is imprisoned of having help'd them to the Poignard with which they stab'd the Governour, and of providing Horses ready for them to escape towards the Frontier. We do not hear that any of them are taken yet. The Count de Vaux is dead, without Issue; he was the Eldest Son of Monsieur Fouquet. The Dutchess de Bethune his Sister, inherits his Estate, which is said to be 35000 Livres a Year. The King has made the Marquis Bonelle, who was wounded in the Action in which Monsieur de Vaubecourt was kill'd, a Brigadier.

London, June 8.

Yesterday arriv'd an Express, with Letters from the Duke of Marlborough to the Queen. This Express brought also the following Advice.

From the Camp at Elst, June 9.

The Army under the Command of my Lord Duke continues still in this Camp, without having been hitherto joyn'd by any Troops but what are in the English and Dutch Pay; and by the Advices we have of the March of those coming from Prince Lewis, it will be this Twelve Days yet before they can joyn us, though by our taking this Post we are entirely Masters of making the Siege of Saar-Louis, which might have been begun already, if all the Troops had come up in time as it was concerted. Monsieur de Villars continues to entrench himself, and has posted Guards round his Camp, to prevent the Desertion of his Troops; notwithstanding which great numbers come over to us daily; and yesterday a Party of Hussars brought in Twenty seven Horses which they took on the Road between our Camp and Thionville.

At the Desire of several Persons of Quality.
